

Hello everyone,

As the strike progresses, it is becoming increasingly unlikely that the College will reopen before December 15. Should tomorrow be maintained as a strike day, the College will reopen this Friday, December 15.

A few reminders

- For Regular Day DCS programs and courses, the first day back to class will be a Monday schedule, as confirmed in previous communications.
- For DCS and ACS courses offered through Continuing Education, classes on Friday Dec. 15, will follow their regular schedule as determined by the Continuing Education Department.
- Exams scheduled in the Access center for Friday, December 15 are maintained and still scheduled to take place.
- The English Exit Exam will be held December 20th.

Exam schedule

- Tomorrow morning, once we confirm that the strike is indeed maintained for its last day, the modified academic calendar and the exam schedule will be published.
- At this point, the earliest exams could start would be either December 19th or 21st . The complete exam schedule will be available on Omnivox tomorrow morning.
- It is possible that exams will take place during the first week of January.
- Teachers will be available on Friday to address specific questions related to the exams in their classes.

Please consult your schedule when it's available tomorrow, and should you have any particular concerns, you may contact your Faculty Dean or the Coordinator of Continuing Education:

- Science and Technology : Haritos Kavallos (kavalloh@vaniercollege.qc.ca)
- Arts, Business and Social Science : Alena Perout (perouta@vaniercollege.qc.ca)
- General Education : Kelly Purdy (purdyk@vaniercollege.qc.ca)
- Continuing Education : Karina Leonard (leonardk@vaniercollege.qc.ca)

Best regards,

Sandrina Joseph
Academic Dean